He loved his many co-writers, especially the young, new talent in town that he would take under his wing. His other passion was fishing and teaching others how to fish. Dycus was a gifted storyteller and loved making people laugh. His music and stories will keep his legacy alive forever in the hearts of the many people that loved him and were blessed to call him "friend". In lieu of services, Dycus' final wish was to have his ashes scattered off the Coast of Tybee Island, GA. To honor him, tell a "Dycus story" to someone today. Donation, on his behalf, may be made to Vanderbilt Children's Cancer Center in Nashville, TN.
